The merchandise imports of the hast seven menths were $23,100,000 greater than in the seven months of the preceding year and $55,000,000 greater than in the seven months ended January 31, 1886. Hence the excess of merchandise exports in the last seven menths was $32,400,000 smaller than the excess of the seven months of the preceding year and $17,500,000 smaller than for the seven months ended January 31, 1886.

The gold movement in the seven months ended January 31 for three years has been as follows: 1888, excess of imports $36,570,348; 1887, excess of imports $37,282,522; 1886, excess of imports $37,282,522; 1886, excess of the same periods were: Excess of exports for 1888, $7,000,408; for 1887, $3,045,719; and for 1888, $8,036,407. THE WEER'S TREASURY MOVEMENTS.

The United States Treasurer last week received from customs $4,447,614 and from internal revenue $2,619,333; total from both, $5,666,649, against $7,496,186 for the preceding week. Yesterday's Treasury statement of balances shows a gain for the week, in its net cash, $4,654,561; by accumulation in its vaults, $4,147,523, toward which the coimage of the standard deliars contributed $700,600; and by deposits in banks, $407,038. Its Hability for redemption of surrendered National bank notes was reduced $5,278,194. The changes in the balances in the Treasury vaults were made up as follows: The gain of $2,765,709 in gold by an accumulation of $603,219 bullion plus a reduction of $2,162,490 in the amount of outstanding certificates: the gain of $2,043,410 in legalcoefficients less an accumulation of $1,305,877 and builton, and a less of $20,9622 in National bank notes by a reduction of $225,731 of notes in process of redemption less an accumulation of $28,109 notes "in circulation." In the week of 1887 the accumulation in the vaults amounted to $2,096,660.

In view of the recent renewed Stock Exchange cry of Treasury accumulation of money, a few cold figures as an offset to the hot theories advanced, are not out of place. The subjoined comparisons of mency in the Treasury vanits are made up by deducting $100,000,000 from the gold balance for the reserve fund against legal tender notes, and the outstanding gold, legal tender notes, and the outstanding gold, legal tender and silver certificates from the total amount of each held in the vanits. The actual cash balance in Treasury vanits yesterday was only $1,600,000 greater than one year ago and $9,500,000 greater than the value of the present date, it seems that yesterday's cash balance was $18,100,000 less than on February 26, ce was $38,100,000 less than on February 26, maintee was $18,100,000 less than in Fernary special restricted at the several circulation, and that pasted ay's balance so far as the general circulation is concerned was only $4,500,000 greater than on December 31, 1887. The following are the comparisons of Freasury official figures which are open to every one:

THE BANKS CONDUMENTS COMPARED.

THE BANKS' CONDITIONS COMPARED.

By the operations of the Sub-Treasury in the week ended Friday evening, the New York banks is $3.555,327 cash. The banks began the week with about $1,000,000 iess cash than the salight process in the week's average in statement of February 11. An ordinary average of these amounts for the week should not call for more than a decline of about $3.000,000 by yesterlay's statement. But the statement did report a loss of $3,347,000 in cash, so it is probable that the balance of the week's interior movements was practically nothing on either side, and that the actual cash holding at the close of business Friday was again something like $500,000 less than the sum reported as the average of the week. There was a small expansion ($431,200 in loans, and the decline in deposits ($2,441,800) is $5500.000 smaller than the decline the other changes call for The statement results in a loss to the surplus reserve of $2,736,900, and leaves it at $15,700,425, against $11,393,000 February 26. THE BANKS CONDITIONS COMPARED.

The week of 1886 were as follows: Loans increase $4,81,513,200, cash decrease $4,086,200. The changes for $1,513,200, cash decrease $6,973,600, deposits decrease $4,842,000 and surplus reserve decrease $4,020,000. The changes in the week of 1881 were as follows: Loans decrease $4,222,900, cash decrease $7,614,600, deposits decrease $1,170,800 and surplus reserve decrease $1,170,800 cash decrease $1,014,625.

SOME NET RESULTS.

Below are printed the net results of such railroad companies as have reported for the month of January. The Richmond and West Point system reports a gain of $25,689 for the month of January, and for the four months of its fiscal year the gain in net cornings ($242,276) over those of the preceding year is within $7,734 of being equal to a whole year's dividend on the preferred stock of the Richmond and West Point Company. Central of Georgia also presents a splendid shewing in a gain of $86,525, or 58 per cent, for January, and $250,785, or 18.4 per cent,
for five months of its fiscal year.

The Panusylvenia Railroad, as usual of late, comes in with a decrease in net earnings as compared with the preceding year. Its net earnings from the main line in January are reported $208,431 less then for January, 1887, although there was an increase of $342,208 in the gross

sameunt of outstanding certificates; a loss of $3.03.874 in silver by an issue of $3.30.875 certificates less an accumulation of $913.903 coin and builton, and a loss of $29.622 in National bank notes by a reduction of $295.731 of notes "in process of redemption" less an accumulation of 1857 the accumulation in the vaults amounted $2.056,600.

THE GENERAL SITUATION.

The general situation has been clearly outlined by the foregoing comparative statistics. It has been shown that the Treasury absorptions so much talked about are as yet a phantom and what is not unusual to the season of the year. This does not touch the question of what will be the condition next autumn if Congress fails to adopt some method by which accumulations there may be prevented. But there is little question that the Secretary will be authorized to purchase bonds. Senator sherman says the Treasury has such authority now, but unfortunately Scuator is not Secretary sherman now, and the ruling authorities hold that the authority to burchase bonds beyond the requirements of the sinking fund is of such questionable character that they will not use it without forther confirmation. Therefore there should be no delay by Congress in satisfying the "scruples" of the executive by a new act. The bill requires no debate and by a suspension of the rules it could pass both houses in a day and take a load of apprehension from the financial and commercial world. In connection with this it is worthy of note, that the amount of bonds held by the Treasury to secure deposits in bank was reduced last week $515,000.

It has been shown that yesterday's bank statement instead of being a "bad" exhibit was a remarkably good one for the ruling the first leaving the statement in the statement when the same and the first leaving as the first leaving the first leaving the same than the same than the bank surpens was from $50,000,000 to $60,000,000 in the sagnation year of 1885.

In a synopsis of ratiway earnings tells of the large volume of business being done; they also show how intile effect the "terrible railroad war" between a few or many competing points has upon the general transportation of the week was dult the ransactions for five days aggregated 549,280 shares, against 795,042 shares for the preceding all week. But even with the smaller tr
